BUMPER BUDGET EDITION

JUNE 2003

Alby looking out over Brindabella National Park and fire devastation near Canberra

A word from Alby...

As part of my role as a Federal Member of Parliament I am involved in several Government Committees, one of those being the House of Representatives Select Standing Committee Inquiry into Recent Australian Bushfires.

As part of the Committees investigations, I attended a tour of the ACT and surrounding areas that were burnt out earlier this year.

The Australian Bushfire Inquiry has received 231 submissions, the closing date for those submissions being 9th May 2003, with the Committee due to Report on its findings from these submissions in early November 2003.

I am also on the Transport, Regional Services, Territories and Local Government Backbench Policy Committee and the Standing Committee on Agriculture Fisheries and Forestry (AFFA).

Both of these Committees are currently carrying out Inquiries.

• The Standing Committee on AFFA is currently holding an Inquiry into Future Water Supplies for Australia's Rural Industries and Communities. The Standing Committee on AFFA has held hearings around Australia taking evidence in Tasmania, South Australia, NSW, Victoria, the ACT and Canberra.

• The Transport, Regional Services, Territories and Local Government Backbench Policy Committee (TRS) is currently holding an inquiry into Regional and Rural Aviation. The Standing Committee on TRS has taken evidence on Flinders Island, Kangaroo Island, in Adelaide, Brisbane, Sydney, Wagga Wagga and the ACT.

This issue of the Schultz Hume Bulletin includes a lift out fact sheet on the 2003-4 Federal Budget. I would describe this budget as one that gets back to home front issues in a responsible and traditional Howard Government 'steady-as-she-goes' approach.

This approach in keeping Australia focused on the issues that count, augers well for sustained growth in job opportunities created by a stable economy.

I trust that you will find the fact sheet to be of interest and that it will provide a useful insight into what is contained in the 2003 Budget.

Oliver's parents lost their home, including Oliver's coin collection, in the January Canberra Bushfires. Alby was invited by Inda Evans of Marulan Post Office to present Oliver with a new coin folder containing 26 Olympic coins. Inda acquired the coins through Australia Post. The new coins are the same as those lost by Oliver to the bushfires. This was a surprise presentation for Oliver who as you can see is very proud of his new coins.

85 CENTENARY MEDALS FOR HUME RESIDENTS

Alby made a personal presentation of a Centenary Medal to Wayne Friend for his services to policing and the community. Mr Friend was about to leave for a term in East Timor.

85 Hume residents were recently awarded the Centenary Medals, which honour Australians for service to the community. Alby took the time to personally present 79 of these medals to the worthy recipients.

The Centenary Medal was issued to mark both the Centenary of Federation and moving forward into the new century. It was created to honour people who have made a contribution to Australian Society.

The Centenary Medal is the third specifically Australian commemorative medal. The first distinctively Australian commemorative award was the 80th Anniversary of Armistice Remembrance Medal announced on 11 November 1998 to recognize World War I veterans alive on that day. The second award was the Australian Sports Medal issued during 2000 to recognize those who have contributed to Australian sports achievement.

THE CENTENARY MEDAL IS BEING AWARDED TO;

(Honour living persons who had made a contribution to Australian society or Government. The contribution may have been in a community, region, or particular activity or celebration held during the centenary year or a profession. This is called the General List.

(Centenarians, or people born on or before 31 December 1901 and alive on 1 January 2001, the Year of the Centenary of Federation. The award of the medal to these persons who have lived through our first century of federation is fitting acknowledgment from the nation of their long contribution to Australia.

Shire Councils throughout the electorate kindly hosted many of the medal presentations and provided morning or afternoon tea for the occasions, for which Alby is extremely grateful.

Recipients were awarded the medal for the considerable work they have done in and for the community, across a wide variety of activities.

They represent the strong ethic side of community service apparent in all Australian communities, but that so often go unrewarded.

Presentations were carried out in Harden, Young, Wingecarribee, Crookwell, Boorowa, Wollondilly, Gunning, Yass and Goulburn City Shires.

CERTAINTY FOR OLDER AUSTRALIANS

- ✓ The Howard Government is continuing to deliver quality assistance for older Australians by supporting health and ageing services, boosting Medicare, introducing tax cuts and embracing the challenges of our ageing population.
- ✓ Total aged care funding has grown from $3 billion in 1995-06 to a projected $6 billion in 2003/04.
- ✓ The Medicare levy threshold for senior Australians will be increased to ensure that senior Australians do not pay the Medicare levy until they begin to incur an income tax liability.
- ✓ Tax cuts also increase the benefits for older Australians. Those eligible for the Senior Australians Tax Offset will pay no tax on annual incomes up to $20,500 for singles compared with $20,000 currently, and up to $33,612 for couples compared with $32,612 currently.
- ✓ Older Australians will have better access to aged care services with $2.5 million in new funding for Aged Care Assessment Teams. This 10.5 per cent funding boost to specialist assessment teams will ensure older Australians have their aged care needs assessed more quickly.
- ✓ A $58.3 million or 8.6 per cent increase to the Home and Community Care (HACC) program is being funded by the Coalition. Almost 600,000 Australians received HACC services last year, including Meals on Wheels, respite care and social services, domestic help and home modifications.
- ✓ More than 57,000 new aged care places have been opened up in the last five years and the Howard Government is on target to provide 200,000 places by 2006.
- ✓ A further $51 million will flow to residential aged care providers from July 1, 2003 as part of the extra $311 million new money for aged care homes announced in the 2002/03 Budget.
- ✓ A $17 million funding boost to Community Aged Care Packages that delivers personal care to people in their own homes, has been provided.
- ✓ A further $65 million over the next four years for the 65 Commonwealth Carelink Centres across Australia that provide information about aged care services.
- ✓ Funding for the National Respite for Carers Program will increase by seven per cent in 2003/04, to support carers who provide for family members.
- ✓ The Enhanced Respite Care Services for Dementia and Challenging Behaviours Initiative will receive funding of $90.7 million over four years. This will continue to allow family carers to take a much needed break.
- ✓ At least 574 new places in nursing by 2007 will help ensure that future demand for services is met.
- ✓ The Coalition has developed a new agreement that will improve veterans access to health care. The government will make higher payments to Local Medical Officers for treating veteran patients, bringing the total funding to $695 million in 2003-04. On top of the 100% Medical Benefit Schedule fee already paid to them for the service, GPs will receive an additional $3 incentive payment for each veteran or war widow consultation.

PROVIDING QUALITY HEALTHCARE

- ✓ The Howard Government is continuing to deliver quality healthcare by strengthening public hospitals, enhancing Medicare, and providing financial assistance to Australians who take out health insurance.
- ✓ In 2003-04 the Government expects to spend over $31 billion on health. This represents an increase in health spending of around 65 per cent since coming to office.
- ✓ Healthcare is being made more affordable particularly for concession cardholders and veterans as part of the $917 million A Fairer Medicare package.
- ✓ Spending on public hospitals will increase to record levels with $42 billion to be provided to State and Territory governments for public hospitals. This is more than $10 billion of additional funding for public hospitals over the current agreement. This represents a growth of 29 per cent over five years.
- ✓ The Coalition continues to contribute to boosting health insurance coverage. Private health insurance has jumped from 30 per cent of Australians in January 1999 to 44 per cent in December 2002. More than 8.7 million Australians now have private health insurance.
- ✓ $253 million over five years has been set aside to establish a Pathways Home Initiative to help people discharged from hospital, particularly the elderly, to make a smooth and easy transition back home.
- ✓ The Tough on Drugs Strategy has been further strengthened with $316 million over the next four years. The focus is on strengthening border controls and assisting those who choose to get off drugs. $14.2 million will be provided to address public health issues associated with illegal drug use.
- ✓ $5.3 million has been allocated to continue the National School Drug Education Strategy and $3.2 million invested in the Strengthening and Supporting Families Coping With Illicit Drug Use Initiative.
- ✓ $64 million is being provided for more practice nurses and allied health workers to work in outer-metropolitan areas where there is a shortage of GP's.
- ✓ Additional funding for health care centres in small rural and remote communities will provide a range of health care services focused on primary care and will address inequities in health access.
- ✓ An extra $26 million over four years will be provided to fund more carers for families with children with ongoing high support needs. This additional funding will assist around 1,250 extra families.
- ✓ More doctors will be provided where they are needed most with 150 additional GP trainees and 234 additional medical school students, at a cost of $232 million, targeted to rural and outer-metropolitan areas.
- ✓ Payments will be provided to long-serving GP's in rural and remote areas to encourage them to continue practice in these areas.
- ✓ Protecting Australia against SARS - $2.2 million over two years for staff at international airports to detect possible cases of SARS. Border protection measures against SARS will be maintained for as long as they are necessary

STRENGTHENING AUSTRALIAN FAMILIES

- ✓ Since coming into office, the Coalition Government has implemented economic policies that have helped support Australian families. Australia has had to deal with unexpected pressures like the Bali atrocity, the war in Iraq, the worst drought on record and an unstable world economic environment. Despite these pressures, the 2003-04 budget is a responsible plan that builds on Australia's current stability by:
- ✓ Taking pressure off the family budget by cutting income taxes for every Australian taxpayer. From July 2003, the income tax threshold for each taxpayer will be lifted. The $10.7 billion in tax cuts will mean Australian families get to keep more of their pay packet in their pocket.
- ✓ Lifting the low income tax offset. The low income offset will rise from $150 to $235. This means that taxpayers earning between $20,000 and $27,475 will get the benefit of both increased thresholds and the increased tax offset.
- ✓ Creating more jobs. There were 230,000 new jobs created in 2002-03 and over 1 million new jobs created since 1996. Unemployment is at its lowest levels in 10 years and is expected to remain stable.
- ✓ Helping young people kick-start their career. The Coalition's popular New Apprenticeship scheme will receive $2.8 billion over four years to build on its record high numbers of people in training - from 142,000 in December 1995 to almost 375,000 at the end of last year.
- ✓ In addition, the number of New Apprenticeship centres will increase from around 300 to almost 500 - rural and regional centres will expand from 200 to 333.
- ✓ Supporting young people with disabilities. 1,250 families will benefit from additional places for children with ongoing high support needs, including those with a disability as part of a further four year $25.8 million investment in the Special Needs Subsidy Scheme.
- ✓ Helping to strengthen family relationships. The Government will help strengthen family relationships by extending the Men and Family Relationships and Family Relationships Education programmes for a further four years investing $25.1 million more in this important area.
- ✓ Providing more doctors to serve families in rural and regional areas. Building on the Coalition Government's existing initiatives to provide doctors where they are needed, an additional 234 new medical school places each year will be created. Once their training is completed, these new doctors will be required to work where there is real need.
- ✓ Providing more relief for carers. The Enhanced Respite Care Services for Dementia and Challenging Behaviours Initiative will receive funding of $90.7 million over four years. This will continue to allow family carers to take a much needed break.
- ✓ Helping regional universities - $123 million over the next four years for regional university campuses.
- ✓ Funding public education - Commonwealth funding to State government schools in 2003-04 will increase by $129.6 million, a 5.5% increase on the previous year, representing a 59.9% increase since 1996.
- ✓ Literacy and numeracy - A further $210 million over four years to deliver better learning outcomes for educationally disadvantaged students.

ASSISTING REGIONAL AUSTRALIA

- ✓ With drought widespread and in the aftermath of devastating bushfires, the Howard Government is strengthening its commitment to the growth and prosperity of Australia's regions.
- ✓ Farmers, small businesses and regional communities will receive around $750 million in 2002-03 and the next two years to assist them through the most extensive drought ever recorded. This funding will provide direct income support, personal counselling, tax relief and interest rate relief for those in need.
- ✓ The Government is working with states and territories to establish a national approach to natural disaster mitigation including bushfires and floods. Conditional on States and Territories matching funding and the implementation of more effective land use and building controls, the Government will provide $68 million over five years for this purpose.
- ✓ The Government has extended the closing date for Farm Help applications until 30 June 2004. This will allow farmers continued access to this programme that since December 1997, has provided a safety net for around 8,000 low income farm families.
- ✓ The Government will provide improved health care in our regions by continuing to fund retention payments to GPs to practice in rural and remote areas and health care centres in small rural and remote communities. In areas with too few GPs, GPs will receive higher incentives for the higher patient loads.
- ✓ The National Landcare Program has received a three-year funding commitment of $122.2m to continue its invaluable work helping landholders to manage Australia's natural resources. Around 40 % of farmers participate in landcare activities and their numbers are growing
- ✓ A bushfire assistance package of $500,000 for ACT Tourism Marketing Assistance has been announced. Tourist numbers to the ACT have fallen by one third directly after the bushfires. Whilst the Hume electorate will not directly benefit from this funding, the flow on results of this injection into ACT tourism will no doubt benefit surrounding ACT areas which attract visitors coming to and from the Canberra region.
- ✓ The Government will spend $7m in 2003-04 to continue the location specific pricing subsidy that enables Airservices Australia to provide affordable air traffic control services at 14 regional and general aviation airports.
- ✓ $62m of additional funding for the Regional Partnerships programme, that will incorporate a range of regional programmes to make it simpler for communities to obtain government backing for their development priorities.
- ✓ Australia's $540m live cattle and $5b meat export industries will be protected with the introduction of a new $2.34m four year program to maintain Australia's internationally recognised bovine tuberculosis-free status.
- ✓ The number of New Apprenticeship Centres in rural and regional centres will expand from 200 to 333.
- ✓ Amongst other benefits for rural areas is a 10.3 million dollar package over four years to increase support to obstetricians in rural areas with a higher level of financial insurance subsidies to keep obstetricians in the country.

DID YOU KNOW

- When legal becomes illegal

Prescription drugs can also fall under these categories. When prescribed by your doctor and used in accordance with the doctor's instructions, these drugs are legal.

When stolen or fraudulently obtained, the possession, distribution or use of these drugs becomes illegal.

One common example is benzodiazepines, (for example, Valium, Serepax, Mogadon, Rohypnol, Temazepam - with street names like downers and slow). Other examples are barbiturates (for example, varieties of sleeping pills) and synthetic derivatives of narcotic analgesics (often varieties of very strong painkillers). (Source - AFP website www.afp.gov.au)

Temazepam is the drug found in Normison, Temaze and Euhypnos. It is a type of benzodiazepine. Injecting temazepam permanently damages human tissue (fat, muscle etc.). The only safe way to take temazepam is to swallow it.

Temazepam is very addictive. If you suddenly stop taking it you could have a fit or other serious withdrawal symptoms - worse than for heroin. Mixing temazepam with heroin dramatically increases the chance of overdose.

Injecting temazepam burns the lining of veins. The veins narrow and block. The flow of blood to the heart is reduced, making hands and feet swell up. Injecting temazepam into an artery is painful and dangerous. It causes gangrene (dead flesh).

In your groin, the arteries supply blood to your leg and genitals. Injecting temazepam into these arteries can lead to a loss of toes, feet, your whole leg or even your genitals.

The majority of fatal and non-fatal heroin overdoses involve a cocktail of heroin and other drugs. The drugs most commonly involved in overdoses are alcohol and the benzodiazepines. It is true that too much heroin, or heroin that is too pure for the person's tolerance can cause overdose. However, in most cases the person had already used alcohol or benzodiazepines before they took the heroin. (SOURCE: Department of Human Services www.dhs.vic.gov.au/phb/drugs/temazepam/facts)
